Our Amoy correspondent mentions a repor which is on the face of it most probable. This is to the effect that a French force, marching inland from Kelung, was, at last accounts, half-way between that port and the town of Twatutia: As the French landed some three thousand troops at Kelung on the 1st instant, it is only natural that they should employ a portion of this force in reducing the more important towns in the interior to submission, since not more than one third of the soldiers landed would be needed been ordered to China. for the occupation of Kelung. Moreover, the importance of sending a force overland to co-operate with the fleet and landing party | miral Courbet on the China station. Th at Tamsui would, we imagine, not be forgotten in Admiral Courner's programme. The interior of North Formosa, is comparatively unknown to foreigners, and this ignorance and the difficult nature of the country has probably delayed the French advance. If, however, they reach Siutow, on the Kelung his very far from being restored." We believe river, some twenty to twenty-five miles from Kelung, the way thence to Twatutia and Banca, two important towns, is plain and straightforward, as the road crosses a level well cultivated plain. There are sure to be garrisons of Chinese troops in both places, but Tameni to reinforce General Soon. Nevertheless the towns would not be captured without some fighting. Possession of these towns once obtained, however, the key to the position would be secured, for Twatutia is only nine miles from Tamaui, and there is good water communication for will require more troops than they have tend to hold the whole of North Formosa, sistance of the Chinese army. This cannot journed to this morning. be done without reinforcements, owing to the necessity of garrisoning the posts seized was commenced yesterday at 2 p.m., and will be while detachments are sent into the interior to engage the enemy, who would endeavour hour. This is the tenerable Rev. William Doon, D.D. who is also widely known in Hongkong and all through China for his high character as well as for his energy and perseverance in the missionary work. Now that he is returning to his native land, perhaps never to return to the Far East, I think I am but giving expression to the feelings of his numerous friends, both in Siam and in China, by bidding him farewell and wishing him health and happiness. I also think it will not be out of place to recall here some points of his long and well employed life. Dr. Dean was born at Eaton, New the English in 1842. He organized the first Testament in Chinese and notes on the books of Matthew and Mark. He came back to Bangkok in 1856; when he founded the Chinese school here
